

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 According to the invention, the implant for treating rectocele and/or prolapsus of the vaginal fornix presents a structure that is thin and flexible and includes a support body from which there extend at least:

- two upper suspension stabilizers disposed on either side of a sagittal plane; and
- 10 - two lower suspension stabilizers disposed on either side of the sagittal plane.